UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

CHRISTOPHER WEBSTER, Plaintiff,
v.
MICHAEL J. ASTRUE, Commissioner of Social Security
Defendant.

Civil No. 08-cv-0189-BEN (POR)

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION GRANTING IN PART AND DENYING IN PART PLAINTIFF'S MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT AND DEFENDANT'S CROSS MOTION FOR SUMMARY JUDGMENT

[Document No. 14-3]
[Document No. 16]

I. INTRODUCTION

On January 30, 2008, Plaintiff Christopher Webster (“Plainitff”) filed a complaint pursuant to section 205(g) of the Social Security Act (“SSA”) requesting judicial review of the final decision of the Commissioner of the Social Security Administration (“Commissioner” or “Defendant”) regarding the denial of Plaintiff’s claim for disability insurance and supplemental security income benefits. (Doc. 1.) On April 27, 2009, Plaintiff filed a motion for summary judgment regarding his 205(g) claim. (Doc. 14-3.)

1 Plaintiff contends the Administrative Law Judge (“ALJ”) erred in (1) ignoring the State
 2 agency medical consultant’s expert opinion,(2) relying on the Medical-Vocational Guidelines (“Grid
 3 Rules”)<sup>1</sup>, (3) failing to evaluate the effect of Plaintiff’s obesity, and (4) finding Plaintiff’s testimony 4 not credible. (Id.) On May 12, 2009, Defendant filed a cross-motion for summary judgment (Doc.
 5 16) and opposition to Plaintiff’s motion for summary judgment. (Doc. 17.) Plaintiff did not file an 6 opposition to Defendant’s cross-motion for summary judgment.

7 The Court finds the motions appropriate for submission on the papers and without oral 8 argument pursuant to Local Rule 7.1(d)(1). For the reasons set forth herein, the Court 9 RECOMMENDS Plaintiff’s Motion for Summary Judgment (Doc. 14-3) be GRANTED in part and 10 DENIED in part and Defendant’s cross motion for summary judgment be GRANTED in part and 11 DENIED in part. (Doc. 16.)

12 II. PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

13 On August 30, 2005, Plaintiff filed an initial application for Disability Insurance Benefits
 14 and Supplemental Security Income. (Administrative Record<sup>2</sup> 76-81.) After a January 25, 2006
 15 denial at the initial determination (AR 35-39) and a May 16, 2006, denial on reconsideration (AR 16 50-55), Plaintiff filed a timely request for hearing before an administrative law judge (hereinafter 17 “ALJ”) on June 16, 2006. (AR 58-59.) On February 28, 2007, Plaintiff appeared and testified, 18 represented by Chadwick Simpson, at an administrative hearing before an ALJ. (AR 248-262.) On 19 March 24, 2007, the ALJ denied Plaintiff benefits. (AR 18-27.) The decision of the Social Security 20 Administration (hereinafter “SSA”) became final when the Appeals Council adopted the ALJ’s 21 findings by decision dated November 29, 2007. (AR 4-6.) Thereafter, Plaintiff filed the instant 22 action in Federal Court on January 30, 2008. (Doc. 1.)

 24 <sup>1</sup> The Grid Rules are a shorthand way of evaluating vocational factors which “eliminates the need for calling in 25 vocational experts.” Heckler v. Campbell, 461 U.S. 458 (1983). These rules, contained in 20 C.F.R. Part 404 Subpart P 26 Appx 2, are not mere guidelines, but are in fact “rules reflect[ing] the major functional and vocational cases which cannot be evaluated on medical considerations alone...” For individuals whose characteristics match the criteria of a particular Grid Rule, each rule “directs a conclusion as to whether the individual is or is not disabled.: 20 C.F.R. Part 404 Subpart P Appx 2 § 200.00(a).

27 The Grids consist of three matrices, labeled as “Tables.” Each table represents a different RFC: sedentary, light 28 work, and medium work. The remaining Grids consist of the other vocational factors which Congress identified as important: age, education, and work experience. Heckler, 461 U.S. at 458. For each combination of factors, the Grids determine whether the claimant is disabled or not disabled.

III. FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Plaintiff was born on October 23, 1964 and was 41 on the alleged disability onset date of May 20, 2005. (AR 26.) When Plaintiff was 12 years old, he was struck by a drunk driver. (AR 252.) At age 13, Plaintiff suffered a significant laceration to his right knee when he accidentally dove through a glass door. (AR 252.) As a result of both accidents, Plaintiff suffered injury to his right knee and leg. (AR 252.) The record shows Plaintiff has been treated for complaints of back pain, knee pain, and elbow pain. In July, 2004, Plaintiff had right knee arthroscopic surgery. (AR 23, 126.)

9           From August 1992 through February 1998, Plaintiff worked as a cashier at a gas station.
10          (AR 124.) From April 1998 through October 2001, Plaintiff worked as a stocker and cook at a 11         casino. (AR 124.) Starting on November 20, 2001, Plaintiff worked as a retail cashier. (AR 110.)
12         Plaintiff stopped work in November 2003 due to his alleged disability. (AR 110.) Plaintiff returned 13         to work again on September 27, 2004, and worked until May 20, 2005. (AR 110.) During this 14         period, Plaintiff reduced his hours to one 8 hour day per week due to his alleged impairments. (AR 15         110.) Plaintiff has at least a high school education and is able to communicate in English. (AR 26.)

16 At the February 28, 2007 hearing before the ALJ, Plaintiff testified he is unable to work 17 because of back, neck, shoulder, and knee problems. (AR251-262.) Plaintiff testified he seeks 18 disability primarily to be eligible for medical benefits, which would allow him to get treatment for 19 his back and knees, and which would eventually allow him to return to work. (AR 251.) Further, 20 Plaintiff stated he does not have health insurance and the only pain medication he takes is Ibuprofen, 21 which County Medical Services is paying for. (AR 256.) Plaintiff also testified he takes care of the 22 cat, empties the trash, cleans the kitchen, and does a little walking at home. (AR 256.) Plaintiff 23 testified he can no longer jog and play golf due to his pain. (AR 257.)

24 After consideration of all the evidence, the ALJ concluded Plaintiff had not been under 25 disability within the meaning of the SSA since his alleged disability onset of May 20, 2005. (AR 26 21.) Specifically, the ALJ found<sup>3</sup>: (1) Plaintiff meets the insured status requirements of the SSA 27 through September 30, 2010; (2) Plaintiff has not engaged in substantial gainful activity since May

1 20, 2005; (3) Plaintiff has the severe impairments of chronic low back pain and chronic knee pain; 2 (4) Plaintiff's impairments have not met or equaled the requirements of any listing of the Listing of 3 Impairments; (5) Since May 20, 2005, Plaintiff has had a residual functional capacity to lift/carry 20 4 pounds occasionally, lift/carry 10 pounds frequently, stand/walk for 2 hours of an 8 hour day, and sit 5 for 6 hours of an 8 hour day; (6) Plaintiff is unable to perform any past relevant work; (7) Plaintiff 6 was a "younger individual" on the alleged disability onset date; (8) Plaintiff has a high school 7 education and is able to communicate in English; (9) Transferability of job skills is not material to 8 the determination of disability because applying the Medical-Vocational Rules directly supports a 9 finding of "not disabled;" (10) Considering Plaintiff's age, education, work experience, and residual 10 functional capacity ("RFC"), there are jobs that exist in significant numbers in the national 11 economy; and (11) Plaintiff has not been under a disability from May 20, 2005 through the present.
 12 (AR 23-27.)

13 The ALJ's findings reflect he considered opinion evidence, Plaintiff's symptoms, and the 14 extent to which Plaintiff's symptoms were consistent with the objective medical evidence and other 15 evidence. (AR 24-26.) The ALJ took Plaintiff's statements that his pain is aggravated by prolonged 16 walking and standing into consideration. (AR 24.) Although the ALJ concluded Plaintiff's 17 "medically determinable impairments could reasonably be expected to produce the alleged 18 symptoms," the ALJ did not find Plaintiff's statements concerning the "intensity, persistence and 19 limiting effects of these symptoms [were] entirely credible." (AR 24.)

20 The ALJ noted the following: Plaintiff was able to work for 8 hours per day for one day a 21 week despite his alleged disability; "the weight of the evidence [did] not support the claims of the 22 [Plaintiff's] disabling limitations to the degree alleged;" Plaintiff's doctors reported near normal 23 physical examination on multiple occasions with only abnormal findings of moderate tenderness, 24 some restricted range of motion of the lumbar spine, and slight limitation in abduction of the right
 25 shoulder; the x-rays of Plaintiff's knees and spine in October 2006 and January 2007 were normal 26 except for thinning of the medial facet of the retropatellar cartilage; Plaintiff's course of treatment 27 has been conservative; Plaintiff can play computer games as long as he changes positions frequently; 28 despite Plaintiff's allegations of disabling fatigue and weakness, Plaintiff does not exhibit any

1 significant atrophy, loss of strength, or difficulty moving; Plaintiff has not been taking pain 2 medication prescribed for severe pain; there is no evidence of loss of weight, sleep deprivation, or 3 disuse or muscle atrophy due to Plaintiff's pain; Plaintiff's allegations of significant limitations are 4 not borne out in his description of his daily activities; and none of Plaintiff's physicians opined he 5 was totally and permanently disabled from any kind of work. (AR 24-25.) Based thereon, the ALJ
 6 concluded Plaintiff's "allegations [were] not credible to establish a more restrictive [RFC].” (AR 7 25.)

8 Moreover, in determining Plaintiff's RFC, the ALJ gave little weight to the opinion of 9 treating physician Paul Kater, M.D. that Plaintiff was "unable to work." (AR 26.) The ALJ found 10 Dr. Kater's opinion to be conclusory, vague, and based primarily on the subjective account of 11 Plaintiff's symptoms rather than objective clinical findings. (AR 26.) Further, the ALJ also gave 12 little weight to the opinion of treating chiropractor Anthony Woods, D.C., because chiropractors are 13 not acceptable medical sources for purposes of establishing an impairment and because his findings 14 were not substantiated by sufficient clinical findings. (AR 26.) Finally, the ALJ gave much more 15 weight to the opinion of consulting internist Carl Sainten, M.D., who concluded Plaintiff could lift 16 or carry 10 pounds frequently and 20 pounds occasionally, stand, sit and walk for 6 hours of an 8 17 hour day, limit his pushing and pulling in the lower extremities, and not climb, stoop, kneel or 18 crouch. The ALJ held Dr. Sainten's opinion was substantiated by his clinical findings and other 19 objective evidence in the record. (AR 26.)

20       1.       Medical Evidence

21           a.       Treating Physician Evidence

22 Starting in January 2004, Plaintiff received treatment from Paul Kater, M.D., through County 23 Medical Services. (AR 171-177, 198, 200-213, 238A-238I.) On February 24, 2006, Dr. Kater wrote 24 a letter on Plaintiff's behalf. (AR 198.) Dr. Kater stated Plaintiff was unable to work at that time 25 due to pain in his legs, back and left shoulder, and he "saw no reason that his outlook or prognosis 26 [would] change until [Plaintiff] [got] substantial medical help." (AR 198.) Dr. Kater stated that 27 after examining Plaintiff, he found Plaintiff's statements, concerns, and descriptions were accurate.
 28 (AR 198.) Further, Dr. Kater noted Plaintiff used a cane for ambulation and appeared uncomfortable

1 at rest. (AR 198.)

2 On July 14, 2006, Dr. Kater completed a Multiple Impairment Questionnaire. (AR 238A-3 238I.) Dr. Kater indicated Plaintiff's knee and back were in poor condition and improvement would 4 be impossible until he could see an orthopedist, which Dr. Kater noted Plaintiff could not afford.
 5 (AR 238A-238B.) Dr. Kater concluded Plaintiff was incapable of even low stress work. (AR 6 238G.)

7 Plaintiff also received chiropractic treatment from Anthony Woods, D.C. beginning July 8 2000 for back, arm and knee pain. (AR 199.) On March 15, 2006, Dr. Woods submitted a letter on 9 behalf of Plaintiff.<sup>4</sup> (AR 199.) Dr. Woods' letter notes the following findings: Plaintiff's condition 10 had gotten worse over the last year and a half; Plaintiff walks with a cane, has trouble getting on and 11 off the adjusting table, and his left knee is swollen with limited flexion; Plaintiff exhibited a 12 decrease in upper body strength, a decrease in abduction of both arms, and a restricted range of 13 motion in the lumbar spine and associated muscle spasms. (AR 199.) Dr. Wood concluded Plaintiff 14 was unable to work at any jobs requiring standing or lifting more than 10 pounds. (AR 199.)

15                   b. Examining Physician Evidence

16 On December 29, 2005, Dr. Carl B. Sainten performed a Complete Internal Medicine 17 Evaluation of Plaintiff.<sup>5</sup> (AR 178-184.) Dr. Sainten's evaluation notes the following: Plaintiff 18 stated he had a history of chronic bilateral knee pain, dating back to 1977; Plaintiff stated he had 19 surgery in July 2004, which gave him temporary relief, but the pain had returned and he now needed 20 to use a cane; Plaintiff complained of back pain, which over the years he claimed had gotten 21 progressively worse. (AR 178-179.) Upon examination, Dr. Sainten found the following: Plaintiff 22 had moderate tenderness to palpation over the lumbosacral area in the midline; Plaintiff's straight 23 leg raising on the left was 50 degrees with some pain in the lower back, whereas it was negative on 24 the right at 90 degrees; Plaintiff's range of motion in his right shoulder was slightly limited due to 25 tenderness; Plaintiff had tenderness to palpation around the entire knee even though there was no

---

27                   <sup>4</sup>Actual medical records from Dr. Woods are not included in the record. Thus, the Court only has Dr. Wood's letter 28 to rely upon.

5 The record is unclear whether the Complete Internal Medicine Evaluation was ordered by the Social Security Administration or by the Plaintiff.

1 gross swelling, warmth, rubor, or effusion; Plaintiff could lift or carry 10 pounds frequently and 20 2 pounds occasionally, and stand, sit and walk for 6 hours of an 8 hour day; Pushing and pulling in the 3 lower extremities were limited, and he recommended no climbing, stooping, kneeling or crouching.
 4 (AR 181-183.)

5 On October 19, 2006, Dr. Arthur Cardones, M.D., examined Plaintiff for pain in his knees 6 and low back.<sup>6</sup> Dr. Cardones noted Plaintiff weighed 289 pounds and had tenderness to palpation in 7 the lower thoracic and lumbar spine. (AR 239-246.) Plaintiff also had a positive straight leg raising 8 on the left, and decreased range of motion. Examination of the knees revealed mild crepitus and 9 decreased range of motion. On November 29, 2006, Dr. Cardones saw Plaintiff again and opined 10 Plaintiff had chronic low back pain, chronic knee pain, and obesity. (AR 241.) On January 10,
 11 2007, Dr. Cardones saw Plaintiff and noted his weight was 299 pounds. (AR 242.) Dr. Cardones
 12 noted Plaintiff's complaints of locking and giving way of the left knee, causing Plaintiff to collapse
 13 at times. (AR 242.) Examination of the left knee demonstrated positive swelling at the lateral joint 14 line, with increased pain upon extension. (AR 242.) Although the October 2006 x-rays of the knees 15 were within normal limits, Dr. Cardones ordered an MRI of the left knee, and recommended 16 Plaintiff lose weight, use a cane and knee brace. (AR 242.)

17 On January 25, 2007, an MRI was performed of Plaintiff's left knee. (AR 246.) The MRI
 18 demonstrated scarring along the medical aspect of the Hoffa's fat pad, thinning of the retropatellar 19 cartilage, and presence of medial plica. (AR 246.)

20 c. Non-Examining Physician Evidence

21 On January 19, 2006, Dr. J. Ross, M.D., a state agency medical consultant, reviewed 22 Plaintiff's file for Social Security. (AR 190-197.) Dr. Ross found the following: Plaintiff's ability 23 to push and pull was limited in the upper and lower extremities; in the upper extremities, Plaintiff 24 was excluded from constant push and pull; in the lower extremities, Plaintiff was precluded from all 25 pushing and pulling; climbing ramps and stairs, balancing and stooping could only be done 26 occasionally; kneeling, crouching and crawling could not be done at all, and overhead reaching 27 should be limited. (AR 191-193.) Dr. Ross stated he considered Plaintiff's obesity in determining 28

<sup>6</sup> Dr. Cardones' report is unclear whether he was a treating or examining physician.

1 Plaintiff's limitations. (AR 191.) Ultimately, Dr. Ross disagreed with Dr. Sainten's opinion that 2 Plaintiff could stand/walk 6 hours of an 8 hour day, and instead concluded Plaintiff could stand/walk 3 only 2-4 hours of an 8 hour day. (AR 196.)

4 IV. DISCUSSION

5 1. Legal Standard Regarding Review of Denial of Disability Claim

6 To qualify for disability benefits under the Social Security Act, applicants must show two 7 things: (1) They suffer from a medically determinable impairment that can be expected to last for a 8 continuous period of twelve months or more, or would result in death; and (2) the impairment 9 renders applicants incapable of performing the work they previously performed or any other 10 substantially gainful employment that exists in the national economy. See 42 U.S.C.A. §§ 11 423(d)(1)(A), (2)(A) (West Supp. 2008). An applicant must meet both requirements to be classified 12 as "disabled." Id.

13 Sections 205(g) and 1631(c)(3) of the Social Security Act allow applicants whose claims 14 have been denied by the SSA to seek judicial review of the Commissioner's final agency decision.
 15 42 U.S.C.A. §§ 405(g), 1383(c)(3) (West Supp. 2008). The Court should affirm the decision unless 16 "it is based upon legal error or is not supported by substantial evidence." Bayliss v. Barnhart, 427 17 F.3d 1211, 1214 n.1 (9th Cir. 2005) (citing Tidwell v. Apfel, 161 F.3d 599, 601 (9th Cir. 1999)).

18 "Substantial evidence is such relevant evidence as a reasonable mind might accept as 19 adequate to support [the ALJ's] conclusion[,] considering the record as a whole. Webb v. Barnhart, 20 433 F.3d 683, 686 (9th Cir. 2005) (citing Richardson v. Perales, 402 U.S. 389, 401 (1971)). It 21 means "'more than a mere scintilla but less than a preponderance[]'" of the evidence. Bayliss, 427 22 F.3d at 1214 n.1 (quoting Tidwell, 161 F.3d at 601). "'[T]he court must consider both evidence that 23 supports and the evidence that detracts from the ALJ's conclusion . . . .'" Frost v. Barnhart, 314 24 F.3d 359, 366-67 (9th Cir. 2002) (quoting Jones v. Heckler, 760 F.2d 993, 995 (9th Cir. 1985)).

25 To determine whether a claimant is "disabled," the Social Security regulations use a five-step 26 process outlined in 20 C.F.R. § 404.1520 (2008). If an applicant is found to be "disabled" or "not 27 disabled" at any step, there is no need to proceed further. Ukolov v. Barnhart, 420 F.3d 1002, 1003 28 (9th Cir. 2005) (quoting Schneider v. Comm'r of Soc. Sec. Admin., 223 F.3d 968, 974 (9th Cir.

1 2000)). Although the ALJ must assist the applicant in developing a record, the applicant bears the 2 burden of proof during the first four steps. Tackett v. Apfel, 180 F.3d 1094, 1098 & n.3 (9th Cir.
 3 1999). If the fifth step is reached, however, the burden shifts to the Commissioner. Id. at 1098. The 4 steps for evaluating a claim are as follows:

5       Step 1. Is the claimant presently working in a substantially gainful activity?
 6 If so, then the claimant is “not disabled” within the meaning of the Social Security 7 Act and is not entitled to disability insurance benefits. If the claimant is not working in a substantially gainful activity, then the claimant’s case cannot be resolved at step one and the evaluation proceeds to step two.

8       Step 2. Is the claimant’s impairment severe? If not, then the claimant is “not 9 disabled” and is not entitled to disability insurance benefits. If the claimant’s 10 impairment is severe, then the claimant’s case cannot be resolved at step two and the 11 evaluation proceeds to step three.

12       Step 3. Does the impairment “meet or equal” one of a list of specific 13 impairments described in the regulations? If so, the claimant is “disabled” and 14 therefore entitled to disability insurance benefits. If the claimant’s impairment 15 neither meets nor equals one of the impairments listed in the regulations, then the 16 claimant’s case cannot be resolved at step three and the evaluation proceeds to step 17 four.

18       Step 4. Is the claimant able to do any work that he or she has done in the 19 past? If so, then the claimant is “not disabled” and is not entitled to disability 20 insurance benefits. If the claimant cannot do any work he or she did in the past, then 21 the claimant’s case cannot be resolved at step four and the evaluation proceeds to the 22 fifth and final step.

23       Step 5. Is the claimant able to do any other work? If not, then the claimant is 24 “disabled” and therefore entitled to disability insurance benefits. If the claimant is 25 able to do other work, then the Commissioner must establish that there are a 26 significant number of jobs in the national economy that claimant can do. There are 27 two ways for the Commissioner to meet the burden of showing that there is other 28 work in “significant numbers” in the national economy that claimant can do: (1) by the testimony of a vocational expert, or (2) by reference to the Medical-Vocational Guidelines at 20 C.F.R. pt. 404, subpt. P, app. 2. If the Commissioner meets this burden, the claimant is “not disabled” and therefore not entitled to disability insurance benefits. If the Commissioner cannot meet this burden, then the claimant is “disabled” and therefore entitled to disability benefits.

29       Id. at 1098-99 (footnotes and citations omitted); see also Bustamante v. Massanari, 262 F.3d 949, 30 954 (9th Cir. 2001) (giving an abbreviated version of the five steps).

31       Section 405(g) permits this Court to enter a judgment affirming, modifying, or reversing the 32 Commissioner’s decision. 42 U.S.C.A. § 405(g). The matter may also be remanded to the Social 33 Security Administration for further proceedings. Id. After a case is remanded and an additional 34 hearing is held, the Commissioner may modify or affirm the original findings of fact or the decision.

2 Id.

3        “If the evidence can reasonably support either affirming or reversing the Secretary’s 4 conclusion, the court may not substitute its judgment for that of the Secretary.” Flaten v. Sec’y 5 Health & Human Servs., 44 F.3d 1453, 1457 (9th Cir. 1995). The Court must uphold the denial of 6 benefits if the evidence is susceptible to more than one rational interpretation, one of which supports 7 the ALJ’s decision. Burch v. Barnhart, 400 F.3d 676, 679 (9th Cir. 2005)

8        2. State Agency Medical Opinion

9        The parties do not dispute the ALJ’s determination at steps one through four. Instead, the 10 dispute centers around the ALJ’s step-five determination. Plaintiff contends the ALJ erred in 11 ignoring the expert opinion of state agency medical consultant, Dr. Ross, in determining Plaintiff’s 12 RFC. (Doc. 14-3 at 10-11.) Specifically, Plaintiff contends the ALJ did not include any of Dr.
 13 Ross’ nonexertional limitations in his RFC or explain what weight, if any, he gave Dr. Ross’ 14 opinion. (Doc. 14-3 at 10.) Defendant contends the ALJ reasonably accounted for Dr. Ross’ 15 opinion and ultimately, the ALJ’s RFC finding was consistent with Dr. Ross’ opinion. (Doc. 17 at 16 3-4.) Particularly, Defendant asserts Dr. Ross’ opinions were consistent with the ALJ’s assessment 17 Plaintiff was capable of performing sedentary or light jobs. (Doc. 17 at 3-4.)

18        “Cases in [the Ninth Circuit] distinguish among the opinions of three types of physicians: 19 (1) those who treat the claimant (treating physicians); (2) those who examine but do not treat the 20 claimant (examining physicians); and (3) those who neither examine nor treat the claimant 21 (nonexamining physicians).” Lester v. Chater, 81 F.3d 821, 830 (9th Cir. 1995).
 22 The opinions of treating doctors are generally given more weight than the opinions of nontreating 23 doctors. Id. (citing Winans v. Bowen, 853 F.2d 643, 647 (9th Cir. 1987)). The opinion of an 24 examining doctor is entitled to greater weight than that of a nonexamining doctor. Id. (citing Pitzer 25 v. Sullivan, 908 F.2d 502, 506 (9th Cir. 1990); Gallant v. Heckler, 753 F.2d 1450 (9th Cir. 1984)).
 26 However, “[t]he findings of a nontreating, nonexamining physician can amount to substantial 27 evidence, so long as other evidence in the record supports those findings.” Saelee v. Chater, 94 F.3d 28 520, 522 (9th Cir. 1996). The nonexamining physician’s opinion must be “supported by other evidence in the record and [be] consistent with it.” Morgan, 169 F.3d 595, 600 (9th Cir. 1999.)

2       Administrative law judges are not bound by any findings made by state agency medical or 3 psychological consultants. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1527. However, state agency medical consultants and 4 other program physicians are highly qualified physicians who are also experts in social security 5 disability evaluation. (Id.). Accordingly, “[f]indings of fact made by State agency medical and 6 psychological consultants...regarding the nature and severity of an individual’s impairment(s) must 7 be treated as expert opinion evidence of nonexamining sources at the administrative law judge and 8 Appeal Council levels of administrative review.” Social Security Ruling § 96-6p. Further 9 “administrative law judges and the Appeal Council may not ignore these opinions and must explain 10 the weight given to these opinions in their decisions.” (Id.)

11       The ALJ is not required to discuss each item of evidence, but the record should indicate that 12 all evidence presented was considered. Craig v. Apfel, 212 F.3d 433, 436 (8th Cir. 2000); Clifton v.
13 Chater, 79 F.3d 1007, 1009-10 (10th Cir. 1996). The reviewing court must “consider the record as a 14 whole, weighing both evidence that supports and evidence that detracts from the Secretary’s 15 conclusion.” Penny v. Sullivan, 2 F.3d 953, 956 (9th Cir. 1993).

16       Here, the Court finds the ALJ improperly ignored the expert opinion of state agency medical 17 consultant, Dr. Ross, in determining Plaintiff’s RFC. In his review of Plaintiff’s Social Security file, 18 Dr. Ross found Plaintiff’s ability to push and pull was limited in the upper and lower extremities.
19 (AR 191.) In the upper extremities, Dr. Ross found Plaintiff to be precluded from constant push and 20 pull. (AR 191.) In the lower extremities, Dr. Ross found Plaintiff to be precluded from all pushing 21 and pulling. (AR 191.) Further, Dr. Ross found climbing ramps and stairs, balancing and stooping 22 could only be done occasionally. (AR 192.) Dr. Ross further found Plaintiff to be precluded from 23 kneeling, crouching and crawling. (AR 192.) Dr. Ross also opined overhead reaching should be 24 limited. (AR 193.) Ultimately, Dr. Ross concluded Plaintiff could stand/walk only 2-4 hours of an 25 8 hour day. (AR 196.)

26       However, the ALJ concluded Plaintiff had a residual functional capacity to lift/carry 20 27 pounds occasionally, lift/carry 10 pounds frequently, stand/walk for 2 hours of an 8 hour day, sit for 28 //

1       6 hours of an 8 hour day, but did not find any non-exertional limitations.<sup>7</sup> (AR 20.) In arriving at 2 this determination, the ALJ first gave little weight to the opinion of treating physician Paul Kater, 3 M.D. that Plaintiff was “unable to work.” (AR 26.) The ALJ found Dr. Kater’s opinion to be 4 conclusory, vague, and based primarily on the subjective account of Plaintiff’s symptoms rather than 5 objective clinical findings. (AR 26.) Second, the ALJ gave little weight to the opinion of treating 6 chiropractor Anthony Woods, D.C., because chiropractors are not acceptable medical sources for 7 purposes of establishing an impairment and because his findings were not substantiated by sufficient 8 clinical findings. (AR 26.) Finally, the ALJ gave much more weight to the opinion of consulting 9 internist Carl Sainten, M.D., who concluded Plaintiff could lift or carry 10 pounds frequently and 20 10 pounds occasionally, stand, sit and walk for 6 hours of an 8 hour day, had limited push and pull in 11 the lower extremities, and could not climb, stoop, kneel or crouch. (Ar 26.) The ALJ held Dr.
 12 Sainten’s opinion was substantiated by his clinical findings and other objective evidence in the 13 record. (AR 26.) However, the ALJ neither considered the opinion evidence of Dr. Ross nor 14 explained the weight afforded to his opinion in his decision. See Social Security Ruling § 96-6p;
 15 (AR 26.)

16           The Court finds the ALJ committed legal error by ignoring the opinion evidence of state 17 agency medical consultant, Dr. Ross, and failing to explain the weight afforded to his opinion. See 18 Social Security Ruling § 96-6p. Accordingly, the Court RECOMMENDS the case be remanded to 19 the Social Security Administration for further proceedings in accordance with the applicable law.
 20 Based thereon, the Court RECOMMENDS Plaintiff’s motion for summary judgment be GRANTED 21 and Defendant’s cross-motion for summary judgment be DENIED as to this issue.

22           3. Grid Rules

23           Plaintiff contends the ALJ’s reliance on the Grid Rules was legal error. (Doc. 14-3 at 11-12.)
 24 Specifically, Plaintiff contends the Grid Rules do not take into consideration non-exertional 25 limitations that include no pushing and pulling with Plaintiff’s lower extremities, no kneeling,

26
 27
 28           <sup>7</sup> Non-exertional impairments are defined as all impairments which do not become worse or better as the claimant exerts himself more or less. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1545(d)416.945(d). Some non-exertional impairments include: mental impairments, problems with hearing and vision, postural limitations, and obesity. Postural limitations include restrictions on bending and stooping. Nesselrotte v. Sullivan, 939 F.2d 596.

1 crouching and crawling, and limited reaching in all directions.<sup>8</sup> (Id. at 12.) Second, even though the 2 ALJ may use the Grid Rules as a reference point for decision-making when they do not accurately 3 and completely describe a claimant's RFC, age, education, or work experience, the ALJ must 4 consider testimony from a vocational expert in order to rely on the Grid Rules. (Id. at 12.)

5 Defendant contends the ALJ properly applied the Grid Rules to find Plaintiff could perform a 6 significant number of jobs despite his limitations. (Doc. 17 at 4.) Specifically, Defendant contends 7 (1) Plaintiff's non-exertional limitations did not significantly impact his sedentary to light work job 8 base, and (2) a vocational expert was not necessary in this case because Plaintiff's RFC fell between 9 sedentary and light work, and both grid rules directed a finding of not-disabled. (Doc. 17 at 5-6.)

10 Once a claimant has established that he or she suffers from a severe impairment that prevents 11 claimant from returning to former employment, the claimant has made a prima facie showing of 12 disability. At this point—step five—the burden shifts to the Social Security Administration to show 13 claimant can perform some other work that exists in significant numbers in the national economy, 14 taking into consideration the claimant's RFC, age, education, and work experience. See 20 C.F.R. § 15 404.1560(b)(3). There are two ways the Commissioner can meet this burden: (1) by the testimony 16 of a vocational expert; or (2) by reference to the Medical-Vocational Guidelines (“Grid Rules”) at 20 17 C.F.R. § 404-p(2). See Desrosiers v. Secretary of Health and Human Services, 846 F.2d 573, 577-18 78 (9th Cir. 1988). The Grid Rules allow the ALJ to take administrative notice of the number of 19 unskilled jobs in the national economy, and can direct a decision of “disabled” or “not disabled.”
 20 See 20 C.F.R. § 404(p)(2); Heckler v. Campbell, 461 U.S. 458, 467-68 (1983); Odle v. Heckler, 707 21 F.2d 439, 440 (9th Cir. 1983).

22 The Supreme Court has ruled, however, that the Grids do not apply to claimants whose 23 capabilities are not accurately described by a rule. See Heckler, 461 U.S. at 458. Where the 24 claimant's relevant characteristics differ materially in any respect from the characteristics 25 contemplated by the Grid Rules, the Grids may not be applied. Auckland v. Massanari, 257 F.2d 26 1033, 1035 (9th Cir. 2001). Specifically, where the claimant has a significant non-exertional 27 impairment, then the Social Security Administration may not apply the Grids. Desrosiers v.

---

<sup>8</sup> Plaintiff mistakenly asserts Dr. Ross opined Plaintiff was limited in reaching in all directions. (AR 193.) Dr. Ross indicated Plaintiff should not perform any overhead reaching and that all other reaching, even if frequent, was “ok.”

1     Secretary of Health and Human Services, 846 F.2d 573, 577 (9th Cir. 1988). In particular, 2     non-exertional impairments—including postural and manipulative limitations such as difficulty 3     reaching, handling, stooping, climbing, crawling, or crouching—may, if sufficiently severe, limit a 4     claimant's functional capacity in ways not contemplated by the grids. 20 C.F.R. § 404.1569; Tackett 5     v. Apfel, 180 F.3d 1094, 1101-02 (9th Cir. 1999) (quoting Desrosiers v. Sec'y of Health & Human 6     Servs., 846 F.2d 573, 577 (9th Cir. 1988) (Pregerson, J., concurring)).

7                 “However, the fact that a non-exertional limitation is alleged does not automatically preclude 8     application of the grids. The ALJ should first determine if a claimant's non-exertional limitations 9     significantly limit the range of work permitted by his exertional limitations.” Desrosiers v. Secretary 10     of Health and Human Services, 846 F.2d 573, 577 (9th Cir. 1988); Razey v. Heckler, 785 F.2d 1426, 11     1430 (9th Cir. 1986); Blacknall v. Heckler, 721 F.2d 1179, 1181 (9th Cir. 1983); Odle v. Heckler, 707
 12     F.2d 439, 440 (9th Cir. 1983). What this means is that if a claimant cannot perform a significant 13     number of jobs within a Grid category because of non-exertional impairments, the claimant may be 14     found disabled even though he or she has the exertional capacity to perform those jobs. (Id.) In 15     order to determine this, “[t]he ALJ must weigh conflicting evidence concerning the claimant's past 16     work experience, education, and present psychological and physical impairments.” Desrosiers, 846 17     F.2d at 577. Moreover, in cases in which the Grids do not apply, the ALJ must take testimony from 18     a vocational expert. Polny v. Bowen, 864 F.2d 661 (9th Cir. 1988).

19                 Here, the ALJ found Plaintiff was limited to sedentary<sup>9</sup> to light<sup>10</sup> exertion with a RFC to lift 20     or carry 10 pounds frequently and 20 pounds occasionally; stand or walk for 2 hours total out of an 8 21     hour day; and sit for 6 hours out of an 8-hour day. (AR 24.) Based thereon, and considering 22     Plaintiff's age, education, and work experience, the ALJ concluded a finding of “not-disabled” was 23

24                 <sup>9</sup> “Sedentary work involves lifting no more than 10 pounds at a time and occasionally lifting or carrying articles like 25     docket files, ledgers, and small tools. Although a sedentary job is defined as one which involves sitting, a certain amount of 26     walking and standing is often necessary in carrying out job duties. Jobs are sedentary if walking and standing are required 27     occasionally and other sedentary criteria are met.” 20 C.F.R. § 404.1567(a).

28                 <sup>10</sup> “Light work involves lifting no more than 20 pounds at a time with frequent lifting or carrying of objects weighing 29     up to 10 pounds. Even though the weight lifted may be very little, a job is in this category when it requires a good deal of 30     walking or standing, or when it involves sitting most of the time with some pushing and pulling of arm or leg controls. To 31     be considered capable of performing a full or wide range of light work, you must have the ability to do substantially all of 32     these activities. If someone can do light work, we determine that he or she can also do sedentary work, unless there are 33     additional limiting factors such as loss of fine dexterity or inability to sit for long periods of time.” 20 C.F.R. § 404.1567(a).

1 directed by the Medical Vocational Rules. (AR 27.) Accordingly, the ALJ did not call a vocational 2 expert to establish the availability of suitable jobs in the national economy.

3       The Court finds the ALJ improperly disregarded evidence of Plaintiff's non-exertional 4 limitations. See Tackett, 180 F.3d at 1102. Specifically, the ALJ did not consider Dr. Ross' 5 opinions regarding Plaintiff's non-exertional limitations in either his RFC determination or step five 6 analysis. The ALJ did not address Dr. Ross' finding that Plaintiff's ability to push and pull was 7 limited in the upper and lower extremities, that climbing ramps and stairs, balancing and stooping 8 could only be done occasionally, that kneeling, crouching and crawling could not be done at all, and 9 that overhead reaching should be limited. (AR 191-193.) Notwithstanding this evidence, the ALJ 10 applied the Grid Rules without "first determin[ing] if [the] claimant's non-exertional limitations 11 significantly limit the range of work permitted by his exertional limitations." Desrosiers, 846 F.2d at 12 577.

13       The Court finds the ALJ committed legal error by disregarding evidence of Plaintiff's non-14 exertional limitations and relying solely on the Grid Rules. Accordingly, the Court 15 RECOMMENDS the case be remanded to the Social Security Administration for a determination of 16 whether Plaintiff's non-exertional limitations significantly limit the range of work permitted by his 17 exertional limitations. Based thereon, the Court RECOMMENDS Plaintiff's motions for summary 18 judgment be GRANTED and Defendant's cross-motion for summary judgment be DENIED as to 19 this issue.

20       4. Evaluation of Obesity

21       Plaintiff contends the ALJ's failure to evaluate the effect of Plaintiff's obesity on his chronic 22 back and knee impairments was legal error. (Doc. 14-3 at 13.) Defendant contends the ALJ's RFC 23 assessment accommodated all of Plaintiff's proven limitations, including those related to obesity.
 24 (Doc. 17 at 8.)

25       According to the Social Security Rules, obesity, as other medical impairments, will be 26 deemed a "severe" impairment, "when alone or in combination with another medically determinable 27 physical or mental impairment(s), it significantly limits an individual's physical or mental ability to 28 do basic work activities." SSR 02-01p. "An [ALJ] will not make assumptions about the severity or functional effects of obesity combined with other impairments. Obesity in combination with another 1 impairment may or may not increase the severity of functional limitations of the other impairment.

 2 [The ALJ] will evaluate each case based on the information in the case record.” (Id.) In Burch v.
 3 Barnhart, 400 F.3d 676, 683 (9th Cir. 2005), the Ninth Circuit held the ALJ did not commit reversible 4 error by failing to consider the plaintiff’s obesity because the plaintiff did not point to any evidence 5 of functional limitations due to obesity which would have impacted the ALJ’s analysis. Specifically, 6 neither the treatment notes nor any diagnoses addressed the claimant’s limitations due to obesity and 7 the medical record was silent as to whether and how claimant’s obesity might have exacerbated her 8 condition. (Id.) Moreover, claimant did not present any testimony or other evidence at the hearing 9 that her obesity impaired her ability to work. (Id.)

10 Here, the ALJ found Plaintiff had the severe impairments of chronic low back pain and 11 chronic knee pain. (AR 23.) The ALJ stated, “the record shows claimant has been treated for 12 complaints of back pain, knee pain, and elbow pain...He is status post right knee arthroscopic 13 surgery in July 2004.” (AR 23.) However, the ALJ did not consider the effect of Plaintiff’s obesity, 14 discussed by both Dr. Cardones and Dr. Ross, on Plaintiff’s severe impairments. On January 19, 15 2006, Dr. Ross diagnosed Plaintiff with morbid obesity. (AR 190.) In concluding Plaintiff could 16 only lift/carry 20 pounds occasionally, lift/carry 10 pounds frequently, stand/walk for 2 hours of an 17 8-hour day, and sit for 6 hours of an 8-hour day, Dr. Ross cited Plaintiff’s morbid obesity as a 18 contributing factor. (AR 191.) Similarly, on October 19, 2006, Dr. Arthur Cardones, M.D., noted 19 Plaintiff weighed 289 pounds and suffered from tenderness to palpation in the lower thoracic and 20 lumbar spine. (AR 239-246.) On November 29, 2006, Dr. Cardones saw Plaintiff again and opined
 21 Plaintiff had chronic low back pain, chronic knee pain, and obesity. (AR 241.) On January 10,
 22 2007, Dr. Cardones saw Plaintiff and noted his weight was 299 pounds. (AR 242.) Dr. Cardones
 23 noted Plaintiff’s complaints of locking and giving way of the left knee, causing Plaintiff to collapse
 24 at times. (AR 242.) Examination of the left knee demonstrated positive swelling at the lateral joint 25 line, with increased pain upon extension. (AR 242.) Dr. Cardones ordered an MRI of the left knee, 26 and recommended Plaintiff lose weight, use a cane and a knee brace. (AR 242.)

27 Nonetheless, the ALJ did not commit reversible error by failing to consider Plaintiff’s 28 obesity because Plaintiff did not point to any evidence of functional limitations due to his obesity which

1 would have impacted the ALJ's analysis. Burch, 400 F.3d at 683. First, although Dr. Ross 2 specifically considered Plaintiff's obesity, he found Plaintiff could still perform work activity 3 consistent with the ALJ's RFC finding. (AR 24, 190-197.) Thus, Dr. Ross' opinion regarding 4 Plaintiff's obesity did not impact the ALJ's analysis. See Burch, 400 F.3d at 683. Second, Dr.
 5 Cardones merely diagnosed Plaintiff with obesity and did not discuss any functional limitations 6 Plaintiff suffered due to obesity which would have impacted the ALJ's analysis.

7 Based on the record, the ALJ did not commit reversible error by failing to consider Plaintiff's 8 obesity. Plaintiff has not set forth, and there is no evidence in the record, of functional limitations as 9 a result of his obesity that would have impacted the ALJ's analysis. Accordingly, the Court 10 RECOMMENDS Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment be DENIED and Defendant's cross-11 motion for summary judgment be GRANTED at to this issue.

12 5. Credibility

13 Plaintiff contends the ALJ's findings regarding Plaintiff's credibility are based on legal error 14 and are not supported by substantial evidence. (Doc. 14-3 at 13-15.) Specifically, Plaintiff asserts 15 the ALJ gave only general reasons for finding Plaintiff was not credible which were not based on 16 Plaintiff's testimony. (Doc. 14-3 at 14-15.) Defendant contends the ALJ gave clear and convincing 17 reasons for discounting Plaintiff's credibility. (Doc. 17 at 5.)

18 In social security proceedings, the claimant must prove the existence of a physical or mental 19 impairment by providing medical evidence consisting of signs, symptoms, and laboratory findings; 20 the claimants own statement of symptoms alone will not suffice. 20 C.F.R. § 416.908. The effects 21 of all symptoms must be evaluated on the basis of a medically determinable impairment which can 22 be shown to be the cause of the symptoms. 20 C.F.R. § 416.929. In making a residual functional 23 capacity determination, the ALJ is required to take into account all of the Plaintiff's symptoms, 24 including pain, to the extent they are reasonably consistent with the medical and other evidence in 25 the record. 20 C.F.R. §§ 404.1529, 416.929; S.S.R. 96-8p.

26 Once medical evidence of an underlying impairment has been shown, medical findings are 27 not required to support the alleged severity of the symptoms. Brunnel v. Sullivan, 947 F.2d 341, 345
 28 (9th Cir. 1991). In the absence of objective medical evidence on the effect of symptoms, the ALJ

1 must make a finding on the credibility of the claimant's statements based on a consideration of the 2 entire case record. Id. at 345-46. "Generally, 'questions of credibility and resolution of conflicts in 3 the testimony are functions solely' for the agency." Parra v. Astrue, 481 F.3d 742, 749 (9th Cir.
 4 2007) (quoting Sample v. Schweiker, 694 F.2d 639, 642 (9th Cir. 1982) (internal quotation 5 omitted)). If the ALJ finds the claimant's testimony about the severity of the claimant's pain and 6 impairments is unreliable, the ALJ must make a credibility determination with findings sufficiently 7 specific to permit the court to conclude that the ALJ did not arbitrarily discredit claimaint's 8 testimony. Thomas v. Barnhart, 278 F.3d 947, 958 (9th Cir. 2002). The ALJ's reasons must be 9 supported by "clear and convincing" evidence. Lingenfelter v. Astrue, 504 F.3d 1028, 1038-39 (9th 10 Cir. 2007). The ALJ may not discredit pain testimony merely because a claimant's reported degree 11 of pain is unsupported by objective medical findings. Fair v. Bowen, 885 F.2d 597, 601 (9th Cir.
 12 1989.) The following factors may also be considered: (1) the claimant's reputation for truthfulness; 13 (2) inconsistencies in the claimant's testimony or between his testimony and his conduct; (3) 14 claimant's daily living activities; (4) claimant's work record; and (5) testimony from physicians or 15 third parties concerning the nature, severity, and effect of claimant's condition. Thomas, 278 F.3d at 16 958.

17 Although the ALJ concluded Plaintiff's "medically determinable impairments could 18 reasonably be expected to produce the alleged symptoms," the ALJ found Plaintiff's statements 19 concerning the "intensity, persistence and limiting effects of these symptoms" were not "entirely 20 credible." (AR 24.) First, the ALJ noted Plaintiff was able to work for 8 hours per day for one day a 21 week despite his alleged disability. (AR 24.) Second, the ALJ concluded "the weight of the 22 evidence [did] not support the claims of the [Plaintiff's] disabling limitations to the degree alleged."
 23 (AR 24.) Specifically, the ALJ noted: (1) Plaintiff's doctors reported near normal physical 24 examination on multiple occasions with only abnormal findings of moderate tenderness, some 25 restricted range of motion of the lumbar spine, and slight limitation in abduction of the right 26 shoulder; (2) His x-rays of his knees and spine in October 2006 and January 2007 were normal 27 except for thinning of the medial facet of the retropatellar cartilage; (3) Plaintiff's course of 28 treatment had been conservative; and (4) Plaintiff could play computer games as long as he changes

1 positions frequently. (AR 24-25.) Third, despite Plaintiff's allegations of disabling fatigue and 2 weakness, Plaintiff did not exhibit any significant atrophy, loss of strength, or difficulty moving.
 3 (AR 25.) Fourth, the ALJ noted Plaintiff had not been taking pain medication prescribed for severe 4 pain. (AR 25.) Fifth, there was no evidence of loss of weight, sleep deprivation, or disuse or muscle 5 atrophy due to Plaintiff's pain. (AR 25.) Sixth, Plaintiff's allegations of significant limitations were 6 not borne out in his description of his daily activities. (AR 25.) Seventh, the ALJ stated none of 7 Plaintiff's physicians opined he was totally and permanently disabled from any kind of work. (AR 8 25.) Based thereon, the ALJ concluded Plaintiff's allegations were not "entirely credible" for the 9 purpose of establishing a more restrictive RFC. (AR 25.)

10       The Court concludes the ALJ adequately articulated the reasons for discounting Plaintiff's 11 testimony concerning the intensity, persistence and limiting effects of his symptoms. The ALJ 12 provided clear and convincing reasons for discounting Plaintiff's credibility, as he pointed to 13 specific evidence in the record undercutting Plaintiff's testimony as to the limiting extent of his 14 symptoms. The ALJ found Plaintiff's testimony about the severity of his symptoms was inconsistent 15 with his ability to work 8 hours a day once a week. (AR 24.) Also, the ALJ found Plaintiff's 16 testimony about the severity of his symptoms was unsupported by objective medical evidence in the 17 record,
 18 particularly that Plaintiff's doctors reported near normal physical examination on multiple occasions 19 and that Plaintiff's course of treatment had been conservative. (AR 24-25.) Moreover, the ALJ 20 noted Plaintiff's allegations of fatigue and weakness were contradicted by his physical state and that 21 Plaintiff had not been taking pain medication.<sup>11</sup> (AR 25.) Further, the ALJ noted Plaintiff had not 22 suffered any weight loss, sleep deprivation, or muscle atrophy due to pain, that his description of his 23 daily activities were contrary to his allegations, and that no physician opined he was totally and 24 permanently disabled. (AR 25.) Thus, the ALJ articulated clear and convincing reasons for 25 discounting Plaintiff's credibility by pointing to specific evidence in the record.

27 //

28       <sup>11</sup> It is important to note that Plaintiff testified he was prescribed pain medication but did not take them because he could not afford them. (AR 256.)

1 || //

2       Based thereon, the ALJ did not commit legal error in his credibility determination and his 3 decision is supported by substantial evidence. Accordingly, the Court RECOMMENDS Plaintiff's 4 motion for summary judgment be DENIED and Defendant's cross-motion for summary judgment be 5 GRANTED as to this issue.

V. CONCLUSION

7 After a thorough review of the record in this matter and based on the foregoing analysis, this 8 Court RECOMMENDS:

9                   (1) With regard to the ALJ's failure to consider the opinion evidence of state agency 10 medical consultant, Dr. Ross, the Court RECOMMENDS the case be remanded to the Social 11 Security Administration for further proceedings in accordance with the applicable law. Based 12 thereon, the Court RECOMMENDS Plaintiff's motions for summary judgment be GRANTED and 13 Defendant's cross-motion for summary judgment be DENIED as to this issue.

14 (2) With regard to the ALJ's reliance on the Grid Rules, the Court RECOMMENDS the 15 case be remanded to the Social Security Administration for a determination of whether Plaintiff's 16 non-exertional limitations significantly limit the range of work permitted by his exertional 17 limitations. Based thereon, the Court RECOMMENDS Plaintiff's motions for summary judgment 18 be GRANTED and Defendant's cross-motion for summary judgment be DENIED as to this issue.

19 (3) With regard to consideration of Plaintiff's obesity, the Court RECOMMENDS
20 Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment be DENIED and Defendant's cross-motion for summary 21 judgment be GRANTED at to this issue.

22 (4) With regard to the ALJ's credibility determination, the Court RECOMMENDS
23 Plaintiff's motion for summary judgment be DENIED and Defendant's cross-motion for summary 24 judgment be GRANTED as to this issue.

25 This Report and Recommendation of the undersigned Magistrate Judge is submitted to the 26 United States District Judge assigned to this case, pursuant to the provisions of 28 U.S.C. § 27 636(b)(1) (2007) and Local Rule 72.1(d).
